

Identifying Key Emerging Enablers that will Create the Future Mobile Network?

Steven Chan

Director, Internet Services & Product Development, MobileOne Ltd.

Deciding where and how much to invest to create the future mobile network depends on many factors. Questions such as, "What are the enablers that will shape the future mobile network? Is it technology, is it application or is it something else? Is the view different between the technology providers and the mobile operators?", are amongst the many that will have to be explored. This presentation gives the perspective from MobileOne, a leading Asian mobile operator from Singapore.